

Title: How to upgrade the mini base station

Generated on: 2026-03-22 10:10:04

Copyright (C) 2026 ELALMACEN SOLAR. All rights reserved.

-----

If there is an update for the Base Station 2.0 then it will update with a ...

Click > Devices > Bluetooth Settings > Enable Bluetooth . Click > Devices > Update Device, and then select the base stations. If you see the icon, mouse over it to check if the firmware is out of date. If ...

Do not use these instructions; update firmware by going to SteamVR > Devices > Update Firmware. Be sure to wait until device has been completely recognized by OS after plugging in and ...

You can connect the base stations to the USB port on your computer and update their firmware. If you see the icon, mouse over it to check if the firmware is out of date. If so, click Update Device. Unplug ...

That's true, you can't do it. It's primarily because the hmd doesn't have the same Bluetooth chipset as the Index. It's the same reason you need a 3rd party app to control the sleep states. ...

And older versions of the Base Station Utility won't launch on newer macs. Here's how to fix this problem and still use your old base station with a newer Macintosh computer.

While pressing the Channel button at the back of the base station, plug in the base station's power adapter. Once the base station is detected by the SteamVR app, the firmware update will start ...

If there is an update for the Base Station 2.0 then it will update with a special Bluetooth module that is inside the Index headset similar to what the Knuckles uses for data.

Website: <https://www.elalmacendelaireacondicinado.es>

